Misap waited on the uptown journey of the 7:45 over the Barre and Montpelier Traction & Power Co.'s line last night. As the main line car approached the switch at city square the forward trucks continued along up South Main street, while the rear trucks chose the hilly climb up Washington street. Nearly at a right angle with the Main street truck the car stood when the motorman brought it to a standstill. The trucks swing loosely on a swivel and a group of onlookers who gathered at the switch were somewhat surprised to see the trucks travel down the two lines at the same time and come together properly after the junction had been reached. No damage was done and traffic was delayed but a few minutes.

At the regular Friday evening service in the Church of the Good Shepherd last evening, an interesting missionary address was given by Rev. John W. Chapman of Anvik, Alaska, who is passing several weeks at his home in Ferrisburg. He was assisted in the services by the rector, Rev. W. J. M. Beattie. Rev. Mr. Chapman confined himself almost entirely to the work of the missionaries under Bishop Rowe. Some of the hardships which the workers encounter were vividly portrayed by the speaker, but his remarks were not concerned solely with that phase of missionary effort in the north. He told something of the vast resources of Alaska and of the plans for their development which the government is considering. Rev. Mr. Chapman returned this morning to Middlebury, after having been a guest while in the city of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Howland of French street.

Under the leadership of Captain H. G. Boyce, Canton Vinton, No. 9, Patriarchal Militant, held its annual inspection last evening at Odd Fellows' hall in the Gordon block. Interest to the parade of the canton was heightened by the presence of two prominent officers of the state organization. Major George A. Metcalf of Middlebury was assisted in the inspection by Col. A. J. Chin, also of Middlebury. An enjoyable banquet, served at 6:30 o'clock in the dining room adjoining the lodge rooms, was the occasion for a get-together of many Barre Odd Fellows, as well as visitors from Montpelier and Burlington. After the banquet there was a short program of informal speaking and the regular meeting of the canton at 7:30 o'clock was followed by the inspection. Both of the inspecting officers spoke briefly after the inspection. Credit for the success of the banquet is due Mrs. C. N. Benedict, the caterer, and her assistants from Bright Star Rebekah lodge.
